Instructions

You will need: one copy of the board per three or four students; one dice and three/four counters per group

- Put students into groups of three or four. Give each group a board, counters and dice. Do an example to demonstrate how the game works and to remind students of the structure of the second conditional. For example, number 2: If it didn't rain, plants wouldn't grow OR If it rained at the weekend, I'd cancel the barbeque. Number 3: If I were rich, I'd buy a big house.
- Students take it in turns to throw a number. When they land on a square, they have to make a correct conditional sentence. If the other students in their group think it is correct the player stays on that square, but, if not, the player goes back to their previous square.
- Likewise if a student can't think of anything to say then they have to move back to their previous square. If a student lands on a FREE square they can make any second conditional sentence they want.
- The student who reaches the FINISH square first is the winner.
